Receiver Installation and Setup

The Spektrum SR2100's micro size and lack of antenna, allows for easy installations. Simply install the receiver in your vehicle using double-sided foam servo tape.

Powering the receiver with a separate receiver pack

Powering the receiver with an ESC

Failsafe

The throttle failsafe position is set during binding. In the unlikely event that transmitter signal is lost during use, the receiver will drive the the throttle servo to its pre-programmed failsafe position. If you power on the receiver before powering on the transmitter, the receiver enters failsafe mode. Normal control resumes when you power on the transmitter.

CAUTION: Failsafe activates only in the event that signal is lost from the transmitter. Failsafe does NOT activate in the event that the receiver loses battery power.

Binding Receiver to Transmitter

In order to operate, the receiver must be bound to the transmitter. Binding is the process of programming the receiver to recognize the GUID (Globally Unique Identifier) code of a single specific transmitter. When a receiver is bound to a transmitter/model memory, the receiver will only respond to that specific transmitter/model memory.

Binding

1. Push and hold the bind button on the receiver while powering up the receiver. The orange LED will flash continuously, indicating that the receiver is in bind mode.
2. With all channels in the desired preset failsafe position (normally neutral), put your transmitter in bind mode. Continue holding the failsafe position until the binding process is complete.
3. The bind process is complete when the orange LED on the receiver is solid.

CAUTION: When the bind process is complete, the throttle and steering channels are active. Keep hands and loose objects away from all rotating parts.

You must rebind the transmitter and receiver if you:

- Change the servo reverse after binding
- Want to use the receiver with a different model memory
- Are using the receiver with a DSMR transmitter and you change the frame rate in the transmitter

Aux channel

The Aux channel can operate as extra servo channel, or as a power supply for a personal transponder.

- If 5.5ms frame rate is selected in the transmitter, only two channels, Steering and Throttle, are operational. The Aux channel can be used to power a personal transponder, a fan or lights.
- If a frame rate other than 5.5ms is selected, the Aux channel will operate as extra servo channel.
- A Y-harness (SPM1516) may be used to operate two auxiliary items from one servo port.

IMPORTANT: You must re-bind any time you change the frame rate in the transmitter.

IMPORTANT: The DX4R Pro DX5R, Dx5 Pro or DX6R are required for 5.5ms frame rate.

Troubleshooting Guide

Problem	Possible Cause	Solution
The system will not connect	You are near metal objects	Move to an area with less metal
	The receiver is bound to a different model memory	Make sure the correct model memory is active in your transmitter
	Your transmitter was placed into bind mode and is no longer bound to your receiver	Rebind your transmitter and receiver
The receiver goes into failsafe mode a short distance away from the transmitter	The antenna inside the receiver case could become damaged if the receiver is damaged	Inspect the receiver for damage
		Replace the receiver or contact Horizon Product Support
The receiver stops responding during operation	Low receiver battery voltage. If the battery voltage is low, it may drop below 3.5V momentarily, causing the receiver to brown-out, then reconnect	Charge the receiver or vehicle battery. Spektrum receivers require at least 3.5V to operate
	Loose or damaged wires or connectors between battery and receiver	Check the wires and connection between the battery and receiver. Repair or replace wires and/or connectors
